Like a bad divorce, the issue before the court is not who did what to whom, or why, but only what¹ and how much².

There is no contention that the Government seized almost all of the Petitioners property. The legality of that seizure is not at issue here. In as much as the government takes parts of this motion as an allegation of any illegality, those issues are not what were intended by the Petitioner to be challenged in this motion practice at this time.

The only issue at hand for this Court is the evaluation of that property for its return; does it exist or was it destroyed? Was it lost? Can it be found? It is sitting, with the batteries rotting away the electronics, in some Government warehouse. Were proper Department of Justice procedures and forms executed regarding the disposition of the property? Was the property given away to some needy government scientists? Was it sold as surplus? Was it sold at auction? If so, how much was it sold for? Can the property be returned?

Baring the availability of that remedy of return, the alternative remedy must be applied; the value of said property must be accounted for and credited somewhere. The first alternative remedy would consist of writing a check to the Petitioner for the full invoice amount of the property. Given this Court's judgment against the petitioner³, the Petitioner suggests that this credit should first offset the Judgment of this court against the Respondent; nothing more. The excess value beyond the open balance of this Court's judgment is another matter for another Court. The Rule 41(g) demands nothing less.

² a dollar value should return not be possible for a particular element

This reply motion addresses only the first part of the Governments joint response to the Petitioners two pending motions, namely the "RULE 41(g) MOTION FOR RETURN OF PROPERTY" and is not to be construed as a reply to the "DEFENDANT'S CORRECTED SURREPLY IN SUPPORT OF HER 2255 MOTION". That reply brief ("SURREPLY" is not being addressed in this brief. The governments reply to the "SURREPLY" is outside the scope of this reply brief. This brief only deals with property return under Rule 41(g) and not the 2255 motion.

This property seized consists of

1) Residual cash funds from the court ordered sale of the Petitioners home and apartment at 300 East 33rd Street as well as the

2) Contents seized in a raid authorized by this court under "SEIZURE WARRANT PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. §981" Filed under Seal dated June 19, 2007, and schedules provided the court as to the inventory of the seizure as recorded by the Federal Agents at the scene⁴, and the inventory of the seizure as accounted for from the books and records of Karron and CASI. Copies of these have been provided to the court.^{5 6}

³ The 2255 issues that are also beyond the scope of this motion.

⁴ GX120, appended here

⁵ 03/21/201211 Letter addressed to Judge Robert P. Patterson from D. B. Karron dated 3/8/2012 re: In response to your order of March 5, which I received today, requesting a copy of the seizure receipt. Here it is. I am faxing it in because you ordered it today. Document filed by Daniel B. Karron.(lmb) (Entered: 03/21/2012)

⁶ An evaluation of the seizure by invoice is given in Exhibit 1.

(...1) Legality of seizure is not the issue; only return of property

The governments joint reply document does not address any of the salient issues raised in the Petitioners original motion for a Rule (g) return of property. The Rule (g) motion covers both unlawful search and seizure as well as anyone aggravated by the deprivation of the property. This motion does not invoke or respond to issues of unlawful search and seizure elements of the Rule. The Government has no reason to retain the property; the trial is over and the judgment rendered. The value of the property, by any measure, is by far greater than the balance of the Judgment rendered by the court.

This reply only raises the single issue that that the petitioner, being the party aggravated by the deprivation of the petitioners property for over 5 years, seeks return or remedy under this Rule (G).

(...2) Rule (G) and Committee Notes on rules from 2009 Amendment

(g) MOTION TO RETURN PROPERTY. A person aggrieved [by an unlawful search and seizure of property Or] by the deprivation of property may move for the property's return. The motion must be filed in the district where the property was seized. The court must receive evidence on any factual issue necessary to decide the motion. If it grants the motion, the court must return the property to the movant [...]

(...1) Committee Notes on Rules—2009 Amendment

It was not the intent of the amendment to leave the property owner without an expectation of the timing for return of the property[...] or a remedy. Current Rule 41(g) already provides a process for the "person aggrieved" to seek an order from the court for a return of the property, including storage media or electronically stored information, under reasonable circumstances.

(...3) A person aggravated by deprivation of property may move for property return

The Petitioner is the party aggravated by the deprivation of the property.

(...4) The court must receive evidence on any factual issue necessary to decide the motion

The factual issues necessary to decide the motion are the following

The Petitioner “standing” to file a claim for return of seized property has a “colorable claim”⁷ that she owned and possessed the property seized by the

1. production of a detailed schedules of the purchases of said property
2. the Government’s own inventory schedules produced at the time of the Seizure
3. the Governments own press releases
4. the Government’s reports to Congress

(...5) Expectation for return of the Property

The government has not made a forfeiture action against the property.

(...6) Expectation for a remedy

On the conclusion of the criminal proceedings, the Petitioner has a reasonable expectation of a remedy.

(...7) The Circumstances are Reasonable

There are no other criminal proceedings against the defendant. The government has no reason to retain the property.⁸ The petitioners request for return is reasonable.

(...8) Title to equipment vests with recipient

Compliance Requirement - Title to equipment acquired using federal financial assistance vests with the recipient. The recipient agrees to use the equipment for the authorized purpose of the project as long as it is needed and will not encumber the asset. There are no requirements pertaining to equipment with a cost of less than $5,000. [emphasis added]

⁷ Federal Procedure, Lawyer’s Edition, vol.8A, §22:228, et seq

⁸ Mora v. United States, 955 F.2d 156, 158 (2nd Cir. 1992) (noting “where no criminal proceedings against the movant are pending or have transpired, a motion for return of property is treated as a civil equitable proceeding even if styled as being pursuant to Fed. R. Crim.P. 41(g)); Mendez v. United States, 2005 WL 2175903 (E.D.N.Y. 2005).

Equipment records shall be maintained, a physical inventory of equipment taken at least once every two years and reconciled to the equipment records, an appropriate control system should be used to safeguard equipment, and equipment shall be adequately maintained.

While title to property and equipment vests with the recipient, the recipient has no cost basis in the assets purchased with government funds. The recipient's fixed asset system, therefore, must clearly identify that federal funds are the source of funding for the assets. [...]

____. ³⁴ Equipment. (a) Title to equipment acquired by a recipient with Federal funds shall vest in the recipient, subject to conditions of this section.⁹¹⁰

(...9) Before and after pictures show extent of seizure

Defense Exhibit BBB shows the CASI lab pictures before the raid.

Exhibit mm1 and mm2 shows the CASI lab after the raid. The location was denuded of all computers, computer networking equipment, and one blender. Remarkably, the very expensive coffee machine and its inventory tree of coffee and tea packets, (from Coffee Distributing, Inc.) were not disturbed.

(...10) The inventories items were stipulated as evidence in the case.

During the trial a number of inventoried objects brought into court and were displayed to jury. Most were not. The video screen was brought into the courtroom. The battery power drills and reciprocating saw were operated before the court and jury. The batteries apparently still held a charge as the tools operated.

The power tools not purchased with grant funds.

(...11) Evaluation by total of Warrant Invoices

The total of the Warrant invoices is $292,098.87

(...12) Evaluation by OIG Public Press Statements

An OIG press release in 2008 at the close of the criminal trial stated the value of the seized property as 390,000.¹¹ The OIG repeated this valuation in its Semiannual Report To Congress in March, 2011.¹²

(...13) Total Value of Seized Property well in excess of Criminal Restitution.

Petitioners' requests return of property and or reimbursement. By any measure of the value of the property, the Petitioners property is well in excess of the Petitioners restitution.

(...14) Value of Intellectual Property Seized

When the Government seized the Plaintiff's computers, they seized the work product of CASI and the NIST ATP project. The research programming work product resided on the SGI hard drives and was not recovered in the court ordered imaging work done by First Data, Inc. The value of this work product is at least the value of the priced milestones of the grant budget, as signed off by the ATP technical staff in on the Six CASI technical reports. The Tasks and Milestones were valued in the budget at 1,400,000 (One Million Four Hundred Thousand Dollars).
